Consider the Average Life Expectancy

---

- The Social Security Administration maintains a life expectancy calculator that will tell you the average number of additional years a person with your date of birth and gender can expect to live. Using this calculator, a 55-year-old man born on Jan. 1, 1966, has a life expectancy of 82.3 years. And if he makes it to age 70, his life expectancy increases to 86.1 years. That's 27 to 31 years to rely on pension and social security benefits.
- The Defined Contribution Annuity Fund will provide additional money to meet retirement needs.

Understanding investments

The relationship between risk and return

Conservative investments have a lower volatility, but tend to grow more slowly and steadily.

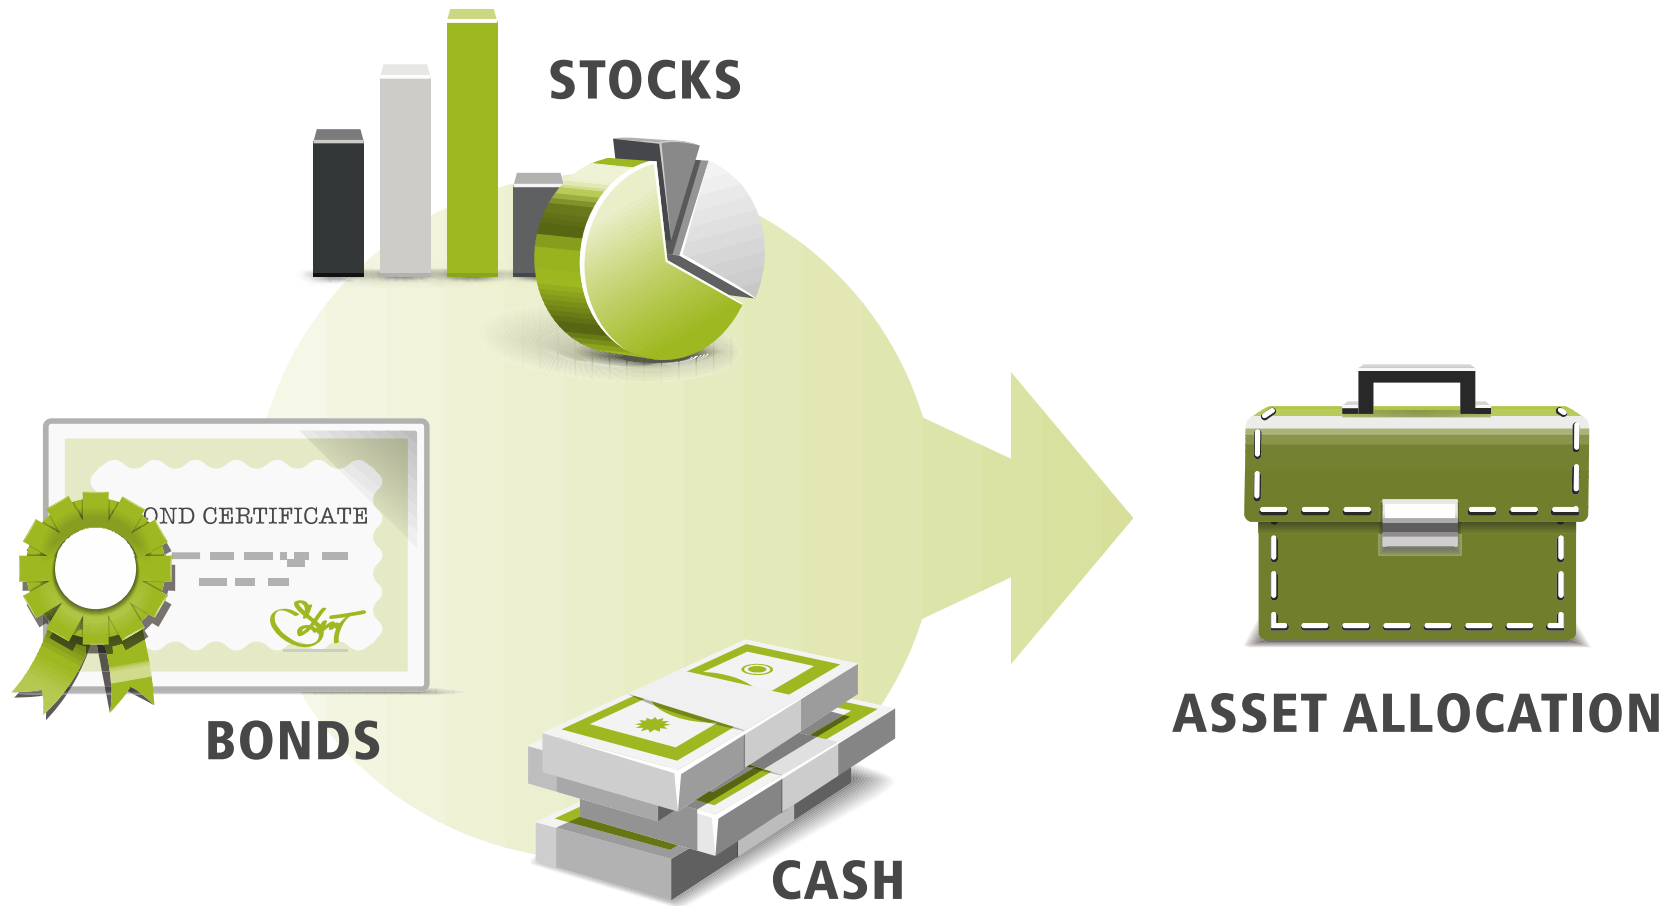

Investments with greater risk have a higher volatility, but also offer greater potential for higher return.

Past performance is not a guarantee of future results.

Neither asset allocation nor diversification ensures a profit or protection against a loss.

Ways to invest

Target-date portfolio

- Professionally managed and provides one-step diversification
- Automatically glides to be more conservative as you approach your target retirement date
- Low level of involvement by you

Build your own portfolio

- Asset mix is managed personally by you among the available funds
- Revisit your strategy as needed
- Higher level of involvement by you

There is no guarantee that any investment strategy will achieve its objectives. Asset allocation does not guarantee a profit or protect against a loss. Asset allocation may not be appropriate for all participants, particularly those interested in directing their own investments. It is your responsibility to select and monitor your investment options to meet your retirement objectives. You should review your investment strategy at least annually. You may also want to consult your own independent investment or tax advisor or legal counsel.
